

Grain Grading Workshop

August 15 or 16, 2017 - Ziegler CAT Facility - Altoona, IA

These one-day hands-on workshops will feature the latest information on grain quality. The Grain Grading workshops will address and display many different grain samples, for corn and soybeans. Presentations on the grading and appeal process will be given. Participants will learn what the official U.S. grades are and how to obtain a representative sample. Attendees will also learn how to recognize major grain damage factors.

The workshops will be under the direction of Federal Grain Inspection Service inspectors from the National Grain Center.

Each class will be limited to 30 registered students. Students are encouraged to bring a notebook to class. Please indicate your date preference on the form below. Students will be assigned on a first come, first-serve basis. AAI will attempt to schedule you according to your preference. When this is not possible, you will be called. Your confirmation letter will specify your class date. Sorry, no walk-in students can be accepted.
